

A Chimney Cap Keeps Out Birds, Squirrels and Other Varmints

Birds are fun to look at but they do have a few bad qualities. Their droppings accumulate in a huge vulgar mass inside the chimney causing a bad smell and can be a breeding ground for mites and bacteria.

Squirrels and raccoons love to raise their young in the nice dark warm shelf, just a couple of feet from your living room and are the most common species to carry rabies and their droppings can carry nasty parasites.

A Chimney Cap Inhibits Backpuffing

Backpuffing (fireplace smoke coming back into the house) can result from several factors. One of them is downdrafts and a chimney cap can help decrease or eliminate downdrafts/backpuffing.

Some of the Reasons Your Chimney Needs a Chimney Cap!

